These rifles also featured a rougher finish than earlier rifles. The rifle went on to see use in other conflicts after World War Two and was even used ironically by the Israelis. Further improvements and changes were made to the Reichspost Rifle which resulted in the K98 rifle, which was adopted as the standard rifle of the German Army in 1935. Although there were semi-automatic and select fire weapons available later in the war, such as the G43 and MP43, there were never enough to supplant the K98 as the standard service rifle.

The Gew 98 proved to be a reliable weapon but it was long and heavy. Carbine versions of the Gew 98 had been issued in smaller numbers to specialized German troops during World War One but they never became standardized. The K in K98 stands for Karabiner which is the German word for Carbine or shortened rifle. Prior to World War Two K98s were exported to a variety of countries including Portugal and China.. Following the war both FN in Belgium and the Czechs began producing a shortened version of the 98 Mauser called the Model 1924.. The German Post Office (Deutsche Reichspost) used an improved version of the Standard Modell for security.. More stamped parts such as the front bands, and magazine floorplates were used instead of earlier milled parts. Hypersonic Vst 64 Bit Free Download

The K98 saw widespread use by the German Wehrmacht, (Army) Kriegsmarine (Navy) Luftwaffe, (Air Force) and Waffen SS.. I have a Mauser-Werke A G Oberndorf Patrone 22 Long Rifle, bolt action clip fed.. This concept is similar to the role of designated marksmen in the US Military today who have specialized rifles like M14s, or the MK12 Special Purpose rifle.. Over 14 million were produced by the end of World War Two, making it one of the most widely produced infantry rifles of all time.. These were not intended to be sniper rifles but rather to be given to infantrymen who demonstrated superior marksmanship abilities.. To get around the Treaty of Versailles the Standard Modell was intended for export rather than domestic sale, however some of these guns were bought within Germany. b0d43de27c طريقة حفظ فيديو من اليوتيوب للايفون
